Christian Science

The convention of the christian scientists held in Boston last week has attracted considerable attention. It was, in fact, a remarkable gathering of some twelve thousand very earnest people, showing that whatever may be the prevailing opinion of this newest form of mysticism originated by Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy, it has grown stronger and stronger in the face of derision. It can not be maintained, however, that because a belief or opinion has survived opposition that it represents any great truth, for it has been abundantly established that error as well as truth often prevails, and also that truth crushed to earth does not always rise again.

It has been maintained with some reason that the seed of insanity is implanted in the human mind and attains varying degrees of development in different individuals. All minds are at some time subject to hallucination, and with most persons it takes the form of religious mysticism or fanaticism.

Christian scientists are probably no crazier than some other people who criticize and ridicule them, but are more dangerous to society because the essential part of their belief is that "matter is non-existent, and that as God is spirit and man, being made in His image, is, therefore, also spiritual and can not suffer; disease is not actual but a wrong belief and can be cured by discarding such belief." Therefore, christian scientists repudiate medical science and refuse such treatment, not only to their own detriment, but thereby endangering the lives of others and of the public health in general.

A remarkable incident of the annual reunion was the pilgrimage of the entire body of christian scientists to Concord, New Hampshire, to pay their respects and show their devotion to Mrs. Eddy, the founder of the faith, at her beautiful home, Pleasant View. The vast throng was permitted to close in underneath a balcony upon which Mrs. Eddy presently appeared and spoke a few words and quoted a few lines of scripture. About her shoulders was a cape of richest ermine. On her head was a small bonnet, purple and green and in the latest style. Holding it in place were purple ribbons fastened beneath the chin. Not a sound escaped the great congregation, but all stood as though spellbound before a divine being.

When Mrs. Eddy had finished speaking and turned back through the balcony window twelve thousand voices broke into the communion hymn. At the conclusion of the singing hundreds were in tears, hardly a person spoke and many stood transfixed.

Mrs. Eddy seems to enjoy the adulation of her followers, and poses as a prophetess of divine appointment. After she had rested briefly in her room, we are told that her carriage came, she was assisted to it, and then drove away through the long deep lines of her followers, many of whom waved handkerchiefs at her carriage window or threw kisses at the woman who benevolently smiled at them.

Rich and poor, white and black, were represented in the pilgrimage, American and foreign-born. Lord Dunmore was there with his wife and daughters. One heard the tongue of France and Germany as he wandered about, many colored women from the south were seen and the men represented every branch of industry and professional life. The women in many cases were gorgeously gowned, while the men were dressed in the latest fashions.

The world has seen many freak religious movements, in some of which women have been the leaders, most notable of whom was, perhaps, Madame Jeanne Bouvier Guyon, founder of the French school of quietism, to whom the distinguished prelate, Fenelon, owed his downfall in the Church of Rome, for his partial adherence to the Guyon heresies. Joanna Southcott, in England, in the seventeenth century, although herself a grossly ignorant person, lead many people of education and respectability astray.

Christian science may contain elements of truth, but it probably owes its rise largely to the decline of enthusiasm in older religious denominations. That it has the elements of endurance is not likely, and unless its teachings are greatly modified we may expect that christian science, as expounded by Mrs. Eddy will be short lived.

Needed Reforms in the University

The result of the meeting of the board of university regents on Monday and Tuesday is awaited with more than ordinary interest by the best friends of that institution, who realize that if it is ever to attain the true measure of a university, radical reforms in its management are necessary.

It is essential that the university be entirely removed from political influences and that the regents be appointed for their culture and irreproachable citizenship, as well as executive ability, without regard to their place of residence within the territory. Also, that members of the faculty be selected with greater care, that the standard of professional attainments be raised, and favoritism and "pulls" in the appointment of teachers be resolutely eliminated. The lines defining the authority and duties, respectively, of the regents, faculty and students must be more clearly drawn, and better discipline established in the institution.

The University of Arizona has been a very great disappointment, if not a complete failure. Although large sums of money, drawn from the pockets of taxpayers, have been expended upon it, and the annual appropriation for maintenance, made by the federal government, is $50,000, yet our so-called university has not risen to a position much above an academy, and without the reforms here suggested it is not likely to advance.

We have confidence in Governor Brodie's honesty of purpose and ability to straighten out the university tangle, at the same time realizing that to effect these reforms will require some time, and therefore, we will patiently await the outcome.

In the light of recent race conflicts in various parts of the United States, would it not be well for President Roosevelt to reconsider his determination to transmit to the Russian government the petition of the council of the B'nai B'rith, which is in effect an American protest against the treatment of the jews in the czar's domain? Such incidents of mob violence as have occurred at Wilmington, Del., Belleville, Ill., in parts of the south, and more recently at Evansville, Indiana, show a condition of affairs that is discreditable to our claims as the foremost of civilized nations. Until we have put down race disorders and mob rule at home, we will only be inviting ridicule from other nations if we protest against the misrule of the Muscovite or the Turk. Although it is humiliating to have to admit it, we don't appear to be much further advanced in civilization than the Russians.

The fact that this country has used enormously increased portions of domestic manufactures of the past twelve months and also increased its sales of manufactured articles adequately explains why we have required $66,000,000 more of foreign raw materials the past fiscal year than we did the year preceding. Our exports of manufactures have increased $2,000,000 for the past eleven months ending last May, as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year. But the chief fact is that big as our domestic manufactures are, they have not kept pace with the general expansion of the country. We probably have a couple of millions more people to consume our products than we had a year ago—for example, an increase in one year as large as that of all King Peter's Servia.

It is probably a waste of effort to advocate a more rational observance of the greatest of our national holidays, but certainly a sane person must admit that there is little that is edifying or appropriate in the prevailing customs of a Fourth of July celebration. Most people seem to regard the occasion as affording them license for indulging in all manner of excesses, calculated to bring disrepute instead of shedding luster upon a day that should ever be glorified by every true American.

United States Senator Hopkins made a strong speech at a meeting in Chicago on Wednesday night of last week in denunciation of the substitution of Judge Lynch for the regular courts. Hopkins favors some means of securing better political rights for the colored race. In various parts of the country meetings are being held which take the ground that while we are praying for Russia, we better exercise saving faith on our own preserves.

The drought is broken everywhere throughout the country, and the great west is about harvesting the largest crop of wheat that it ever gathered in. Kansas is happy over a rainfall which, although disastrous in places, has done good service not only to wheat but to other crops, corn especially. Kansas farmers are getting rich on a crop of about 5,750,000 acres.

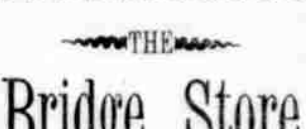

It is reported that one of our Bisbee firms—name unknown at this office—has nailed an advertising sign on the front gate of the cemetery. This hardly seems an appropriate thing to appear on so sacred a place, and it is sincerely hoped that this act of some irresponsible agent may be quickly recalled.—Bisbee Review. We don't agree with the Review. The place chosen for the advertisement is evidently an appropriate one, for a Bisbee firm that is unknown at the Review office is a "dead one."

No Pity Shown.

"For years fate was after me continuously," writes F. A. Gullede, Verbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of Piles, causing twenty-four tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. Equally good for Burns and all aches and pains. Only 25c at all drug stores."

The assessment roll of Coconino county amounts to $2,703,336.07, as against $4,527,439.66 in 1902, being a decrease of $1,824,103.59 from last year. The decrease was due to the transfer of the forest reserve lands owned by the various individual and corporation owners. The decrease will be greater next year, and the county will resume its place among the third-class counties.

No man or woman in the state will hesitate to speak well of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets after once trying them. They always produce a pleasant movement of the bowels, improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. For sale by H. C. Hitchcock.
